

INDIA BUSINESS LAW JOURNAL

A cut above the rest

12 August 2020

India Business Law Journal reveals its leading foreign firms for India work. Vandana Chatlani reports

Italian firm GIANNI ORIGONI GRIPPO CAPPELLI & PARTNERS has a dedicated India desk and non-exclusive relationships with a number of law firms in India. In 2016, it advised ArcelorMittal on its investment in Italian steelmaker Ilva, and is currently assisting the company on negotiating with the Italian government to restructure the industrial plan and revise its agreements. It also represented Italian construction engineering company Trevifin in the sale of its oil and gas division to Hyderabad-headquartered Megha Engineering & Infrastructures (MEIL) for €116 million. The sale involved two holding companies of the Trevi Group and their subsidiaries worldwide. “Their strength comes to bear especially in transactions involving the review of complex regulatory regimes against any potential threat to the commercial viability of a deal and the client’s business objectives,” says Kosturi Ghosh, a partner at Trilegal. Sandeep Mehta, a partner at J Sagar Associates, recommends Rosario Zaccà and Kathleen Lemmens.

[Gianni’s] strength comes to bear especially in transactions involving the review of complex regulatory regimes against any potential threat to the commercial viability of a deal and the client’s business objectives

Kosturi Ghosh
Partner
Trilegal